Fingerprinting in Virginia

Why does fingerprinting of defendants matter?

- A significant number of criminal charges and convictions do not appear on criminal history records due to missing fingerprints.
- Fingerprints must be collected and submitted to the Central Criminal Records Exchange (CCRE) before an offense will appear on a criminal history record.
- Virginia State Police (VSP) identified the issue and is addressing it, but the problem persists.

Recommendation 12: Require training for law enforcement, prosecutors, court clerks, state probation officers, and judges on the collection and submission of fingerprints and the vital relationship between fingerprint collection and criminal history records.

VIRGINIA STATE CRIME COMMISSION

26

Recommendations

Recommendation 13: Request that Crime Commission staff continue to work with the Secretary of Public Safety's Internal Dispositions Workgroup to consider the following issues:

- Determine responsibility for collecting fingerprints from defendants charged via summons.
- Determine how the submission of juvenile fingerprints and offenses should be handled.
- Determine how the Uniform Statute Table (UST) should be updated and implemented.

VIRGINIA STATE CRIME COMMISSION

27

Recommendations

Recommendation 13: Dispositions Workgroup (cont.):

- Determine fingerprinting procedures for defendants released on an unsecured bond by a magistrate.
- Consider issues related to Live Scan systems, such as availability in courthouses and software updates.
- Develop solutions to assist localities with high rates of unapplied offenses.

VIRGINIA STATE CRIME COMMISSION

28

Recommendations

Recommendation 13: Dispositions Workgroup (cont.):

- Determine which agency should administer and maintain regulations related to fingerprinting procedure and CCRE submission and maintenance.
- Determine how local probation can assist in identifying unapplied offenses and collecting fingerprints.
- Develop a plan to collect missing fingerprints for defendants who have offenses in the CCRE Hold File.

Policy Decision Options

- The following options will require statutory changes, as well as extensive modifications to current fingerprinting policies and procedures.

Policy Decision Options

Policy Decision Option 1: Amend the Va. Code to expand the list of offenses that require CCRE reports.

- Option A: Require CCRE reports for all jailable offenses.
- Option B: Require CCRE reports for certain offenses not currently included, such as:
 - Underage possession of alcohol (Va. Code § 4.1-305)
 - Dangerous dog violations (Va. Code § 3.2-6540)
 - Violation of home electronic incarceration (Va. Code § 53.1-131.2)

VIRGINIA STATE CRIME COMMISSION

31

Policy Decision Options

Pros of Policy Decision Option 1:

- Clarity will ease administration of fingerprinting procedures for law enforcement and court personnel (Option A only).
- More accurate tracking of first offender statutes for underage possession of alcohol and vandalism ordinances (Both Options).

Cons of Policy Decision Option 1 (Both Options):

- Increased personnel for processing of fingerprinting.
- Will require updated software for Live Scan machines to match new list of reportable offenses.
- Expungement statute only covers Title 18.2 charges.

VIRGINIA STATE CRIME COMMISSION

32

Policy Decision Options

Policy Decision Option 2: Amend the Va. Code to require the collection of fingerprints for CCRE reportable offenses when a summons is issued.

Policy Decision Options

Pros of Policy Decision Option 2:

- Eliminates the necessity of collecting fingerprints post-disposition.
- If a defendant fails to appear, or is found guilty in absentia, fingerprints have already been collected.
- Can be done quickly, because two thumbprints are sufficient for VSP requirements.
- Facilitates identification of defendants charged via summons.
- Emerging technology allows for mobile fingerprinting.

Policy Decision Options

Cons of Policy Decision Option 2:

- May delay the duration of a seizure, for both defendants and law enforcement officers.
- Technology may not be available to all law enforcement agencies due to limited resources.
- Ink-card submissions may not be as accurate as electronic submissions, and require increased personnel and processing.
